

Tour of the memories of Josipina Urbančič Turnograjska

Josipina Urbančič (1833 - 1854), the first Slovene writer, poet, composer and storyteller, lived at Turn Castle and therefore created under the pseudonym Turnograjska. During the visit of the castle and its surroundings you will get the feeling of a time when writing in the Slovene language was the exception rather than the rule, especially for a woman constrained by a completely male cultural environment of the time. You will enter the chapel where she got married, stand in front of a replica of her grave and watch a short documentary about her interesting yet unfortunately very short life. One of the interesting things about her life are the letters she exchanged with Lovro Toman before their wedding. There were more than a thousand of them and they are considered to be the largest collection of love letters in the Slovenian language.
